EPIC Announces Extension of Open Season for Crude Oil Pipeline in Texas

June 21, 2018 (SAN ANTONIO, TX): EPIC announced today that it would be extending its existing Open Season on the EPIC Crude Pipeline System. The Open Season was initially closed on December 23, 2017, but was subsequently re-opened and extended until June 20, 2018. EPIC previously announced that it has received sufficient customer interest to sanction the proposed 730-mile crude pipeline running from the Permian Basin to Corpus Christi based upon volume commitments and acreage dedications. EPIC has determined that an additional 11-day extension of the current Open Season is warranted due to additional interest in the crude pipeline project.

The extended opportunity to participate in the Open Season will begin 8:00AM CST June 21, 2018 and end on 5:00PM CST July 2, 2018.

EPIC Crude Pipeline Commercial Update

The 730-mile crude petroleum pipeline runs across Texas from Orla in the Permian Basin to the Port of Corpus Christi with capacity up to 590,000 barrels per day. The project includes terminals in Orla, Saragosa, Crane, Wink, Midland, Helena, and Gardendale, with Port of Corpus Christi connectivity and export access.

Expected to be in-service in second half of 2019, the EPIC Crude Pipeline is being laid alongside EPIC's previously announced NGL Pipeline System, which is currently under construction. Crude and NGL right-of-way acquisition commenced in October 2017 when the EPIC NGL project was kicked off.
